From the Hist. of Saratoga by Sylvester.

- Locations in Saratoga -

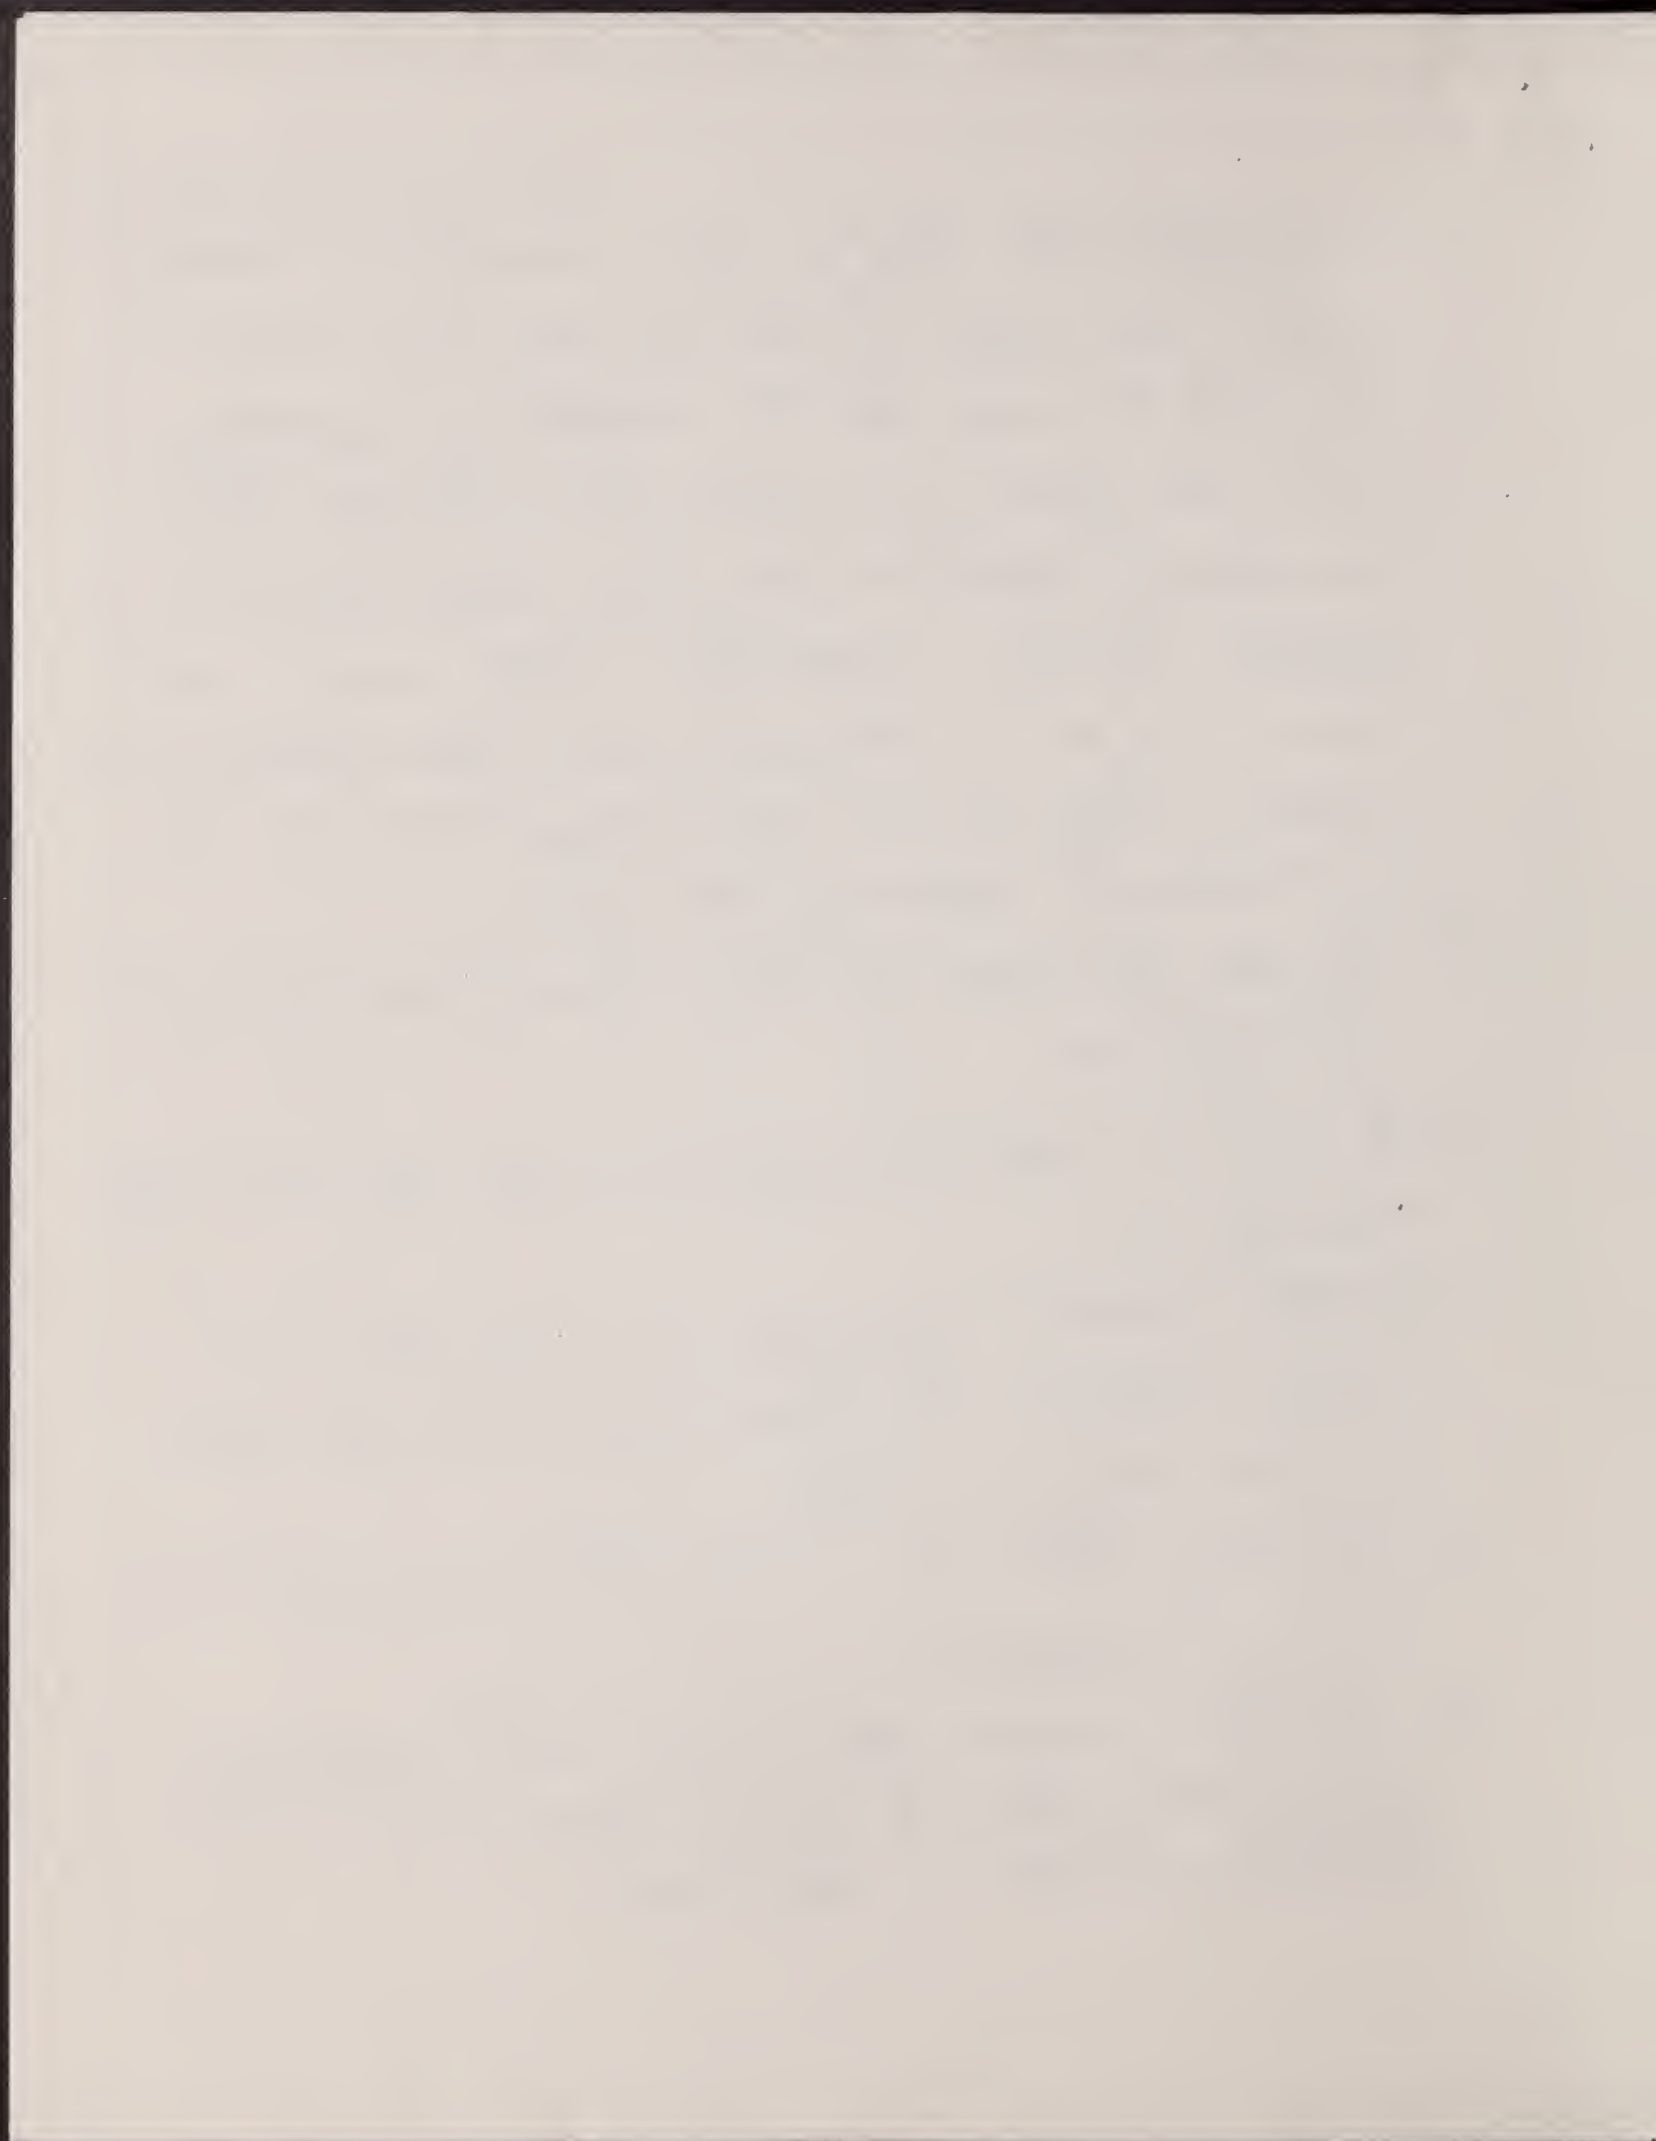

1. a stockade built by Peter Schuyler in 1409 in Queen Ann's war was situated on the east side of the Hudson, about a mile from Saratoga. It was on a hill and has been erroneously called Ft. Saratoga.
2. Lot No. 4 (the Wendel lot) was sold to Johannes Schuyler, grand-father of the general. This was in 1702. No. 4 was located south of Fish Creek. Johannes continued with Wendel improvements by building mills etc. and laying out farms. Before 1742, Johannes gave No. 4 to his sons Philip and John.
3. Philip was an uncle to the gen. He lived in the only brick house in Old Saratoga. It was once occupied by Johannes.
4. The village had a main street or road running N. and S. for about a mile. On either side were houses occupied by settlers, who worked their farms and came to the village for protection. There were about 30 houses with out buildings & a mill.
5. For a mile or more cleared fields extended on each side of the Fish Creek (west side of Hudson). The rd. mentioned in 4. ran through village and fields with houses scattered a longit for the farmers. (Better interpretation?)
6. The brick house stood a little to the S. E. of the present Schuyler mansion. (canal ground now).

- 50 rods. From Schuyler's mansion,
7. The wooden Ft. stood on the w. bank of the Hudson, south of the mouth of the Fish Creek. (Ft. Saratoga)
  8. In 1747, two years after the destruction of the village, the Ft. was rebuilt and called Ft. Clinton. This Ft. was above the mouth of the Fish Creek. It was 150' x 100'. all wood. It had 6 block houses within - one in each corner and one in the centre of each main curtain. These served as barracks and store-houses. This Ft. was in an angle between the Hudson and the Fish Creek.
  9. There were a few houses on the east bank of the Hudson and S. of Batten Kill.
  10. The Saw-mill was on the south side of the Fish Creek. There were other mills.
  11. At the destruction of Saratoga, 1745. some houses were without occupants. These houses belonged to merchants who spent the winter in Albany.
  12. There was a little island in the Hudson, in front of Ft. Clinton. Ft. dismantled in Autumn of 1747.
  13. Ft. Miller was 4 mls. above Saratoga at the "Little Carrying Place". 8 mls. above is the "Great Carrying Place". 12 mls farther n. is Ft. Ann on Wolf Creek.

14. An old trail followed by Jogues, the martyr, ran through Saratoga Dist. ran from the Hudson at Glen Falls along the foot of Mt. MacGregor and turning northerly at Stokes Tavern, crossed the whole length of <sup>near Lake Depland</sup> Greenfield, and passed the Rayadonnes range, in the Mohawk valley.
15. Fts. on the Richelieu were, Sorel, Chambly, and Ste. Mère.
16. Sanford Glen lived at Scotin near Schenectady. 1690.
17. Ft. Hardy was on the w. bank of the Hudson opposite the mouth of the Batten Kill.
18. A fort had been built 28 mls. n.w. of Half-moon at Chertoga, in the vicinity of which several farms had been cleared in Heisler's time but desolated during the war.
19. Saratoga Patent. extended 22 mls. n. of Mechanicsville on both sides of the Hudson. In 1708 a new Patent was obtained, because the old one conflicted with the claims of Albany.

intrigued me and Columbia Co. New York is between

Dear Sir,

I have been asked by the Keeper of Manuscripts to reply to your letter of 27th August.

The name about which you enquire appears quite clearly as "John Bushby" on folios 57 and 69 of Add.MS. 21827.

I regret that I know nothing of individuals of the name of Eaststaff, and I have been unable to find any references to material relating to them in the indexes to our catalogues.

Yours faithfully, and became a member of the manufacturing firm of Sargent, Jewell & Brooks, with factories at Clinton, Rochester, New York, and other places. He is a member of the Masonic order, and is republican in politics, and while a resident of Franklin county was elected and served three or four terms in the state legislature. In 1847 he married Melissa Burrows, a daughter of Isaac Burrows and a sister to George Burrows, of the New York Central Railroad Company. To that union has been born a family of four children, three sons and a daughter: John, the subject of this sketch; Halbert G., in business with his father at Chicago; Bryant B., a partner with his brother John in a cattle ranch in the State of Wyoming, at present member of the legislature of that State; and Jennie M., living at home with her parents in Chicago. Both Silas N. Brooks and his wife are active members of the Universalist church.

John Brooks was reared in his native village and obtained a superior English education in the Powers institute, of Bernardston, Massachusetts. In 1868 he engaged with Bradford, Thomas & Co., wholesale dry goods merchants of Boston, as a traveling salesman, and has remained with that company ever since. He and his brother, Bryant B., own one of the largest cattle ranches in the State of Wyoming, containing forty thousand acres of pasture land, five thousand of which are irrigated. This ranch is stocked with the largest and best herd of Galloway cattle to be found in the United States. Mr. Brooks is also secretary of the Consolidated Electric Company, of Greenwich, where he resides, which position he has held since 1891. This company lights the villages of Greenwich, Cambridge, Schuylerville and Middle Falls, their power station being located at the last named place.

In 1899 John Brooks was united by marriage to Lena M. Haskell, a daughter of D. D. Haskell, of the village of Greenwich. To Mr. and Mrs. Brooks have been born two children, sons, named John B. and Kenneth B.

Politically Mr. Brooks is inclined to independence, voting for those he considers the best men. He is a member of John Abbott Lodge, of Summitville, Massachusetts.

HON. HENRY G. BURLEIGH, who served with credit in the forty-eighth and forty-ninth congresses, is one whose successful efforts to develop the great transportation system of the Hudson river valley make it proper that some account of his life and labors should be placed upon the permanent historical record of the county. He is a son of Gordon and Elizabeth (Weeks) Burleigh, and was born at Canaan, New Hampshire, June 2, 1834. The Burleigh family is of English descent, and was planted in New England in 1640, by four Burleigh brothers, who settled respectively in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Maine. From the brother who settled in New Hampshire was descended General Joseph Burleigh, the grandfather of the subject of this sketch. General Burleigh was a native of Dorchester, New Hampshire, in which State he died on his farm at Franklin, when in the seventy-fourth year of his age. He held an important command under General Stark, and participated in the battle of Bennington. His son, Gordon Burleigh (father), was a native of Canaan, New Hampshire, and at the age of fifty-two years, removed to Ticonderoga, Essex county, this State, where he was engaged in the lumbering business until his death, which occurred when he was in the sixty-eighth year of his age. He married Elizabeth Weeks, who died at Ticonderoga in 1872, at seventy-one years of age. Mrs. Burleigh was of English lineage, and one of her ancestors built the "Weeks House," the first brick house erected in New England.

Henry G. Burleigh was reared at Concord, New Hampshire, received his education in the common schools, and at fourteen years of age removed to Ticonderoga. He gradually enlarged his operations until 1866, when he found Ticonderoga did not control the volume of transportation that he was then prepared to handle, and accordingly came to Whitehall as a better terminal to the large transportation business which he wished to establish. He has continued successfully at Whitehall in the transportation business ever since, and continually enlarging the scope of his operations until he now requires from one hundred to one hundred and fifty canal and steamboats to carry the immense amount of freight which he handles. His transportation line extends from the cities of Ottawa, Quebec and Montreal, Canada, to New York and Philadelphia. He owns iron ore mines on Lake Champlain, from which he ships large quantities of ore, beside shipping lumber from Canada to New York, and coal from Pennsylvania to Canada. Mr. Burleigh employs a large force of hands, and has built up one of the great transportation systems of this country, which has stimulated activity and awakened enterprise at numerous places. When he entered into his present business it was not a field full of brilliant promise or great expectation, but possessed only unseen possibilities and plenty of hard work. That he has made the most of these possibilities is attested by his present success, and that he has worked hard to win commercial supremacy in his business stands recorded in the many severe struggles through which he has passed. The record of his business life would be incomplete if it only made mention of his transportation work, and while it is needless to speak in detail of his many other business enterprises, yet a reference to some of them is not out of place. He is president of the old National bank of Whitehall, and a director of the Commerce Insurance Company, of Albany, the Bay State Furnace Company, of Port Henry, and the Lake Champlain and Port Henry Towing companies. In business operations Mr. Burleigh has very fixed views and acts on any new venture only after mature deliberation.

In 1869 Mr. Burleigh married Jennie E. Richards, of Ticonderoga, and they have three children: Henry Gordon, Charles Richards and James Weeks. Mrs. Burleigh is a daughter of John and Elizabeth Richards. Henry G. Burleigh, in politics, has always been an active and leading republican. He was secretary of the first Republican convention held in northern New York, and served as a delegate to the Republican National convention of 1884 that nominated Blaine. In this convention Mr. Burleigh moved that the nomination of Mr. Blaine be made unanimous at the request of President Arthur. Mr. Burleigh was also a delegate to the National Republican convention of 1888, which nominated President Harrison the first time, and again in 1892 that placed Harrison in nomination for the second time. In 1861 Mr. Burleigh was elected supervisor of the town of Ticonderoga, and remained supervisor of that town during the rebellion. The full quota of men were always raised in that town under each call of the President made there, thereby preventing any draft. After coming to Washington county he was nominated and elected to the State assembly, serving in that body during the session of 1876, and was chairman of the committee on canals, Samuel J. Tilden being governor. In 1883 Mr. Burleigh was elected from his district, composed of the counties of Washington and Rensselaer, to the forty-eighth congress, and at the end of his term he was re-elected and served through the forty-ninth. Being a clear headed and able business manager, Mr. Burleigh was amply able to fully protect the industrial and commercial interests of his district, and to serve with ability and credit on different congressional committees appointed to look after the general business affairs of the country. For over thirty years Henry G. Burleigh has been one of the republican leaders of northern New York and the State.

Dear Dr. Burlingame,

Enclosed is a couple of pages taken from Our Washington Co. Encyclopedia, which might give you an earlier picture of your family. We are still working very hard on our history. Ed spends the mornings of every other week in the Archives tracing all Livingstons across Ontario. We have gained much ground since our last visit with you, and even was able to make a copy of the Hoosack Valley.
We are gathering a wanted listing from different ones. Our books will help many eventually.

We trust you are keeping reasonably well.
Opportunity arises well about around sometime again for visit. However if you can call on us, sometime you are in Toronto please do. Phone No. 633-4495 Sincerely Yours
